Good Morning All,

We are very appreciative of the work and support that you have provided to your schools during the last couple of weeks. We recognize that these unprecedented times bring much anxiety and uncertainty for all of us. In an effort to continue serving our students, it is important that we find creative ways to navigate our new normal.

As you all know, we have worked diligently to provide digital and distant learning resources for all students. Administrators and teachers have created online and print material for every student to access. School nutrition workers have worked tirelessly to provide two meals per day for our students. Lawrence Harris and his team have developed comprehensive distribution plans to minimize contact while addressing a significant need within our community.

We have been fortunate to have a wealth of volunteers to assist with our meal distribution. However, we now need your assistance. As expressed in an earlier email, we all are expected to be available as needed during work hours. During this difficult time, it is more challenging for some of our staff to come in than others. Those with small children are having the challenge of finding child care. We ask those of you that do not have extenuating circumstances to volunteer and fill the gap for those who can't. If we do not get enough volunteers, we will assign the needed personnel. For those that have already volunteered, allow me to express my gratitude on behalf of our community. It is a tremendous opportunity to serve our students and feel like you are part of a solution.

Links to sign up are included below. If you are unable to assist with one of the shifts, please call or email your principal. They will maintain records of staff participation for human resources. We recognize that these are challenging times, but we will get through it because we are better together.

Sincerely,
Xernona J. Thomas
Interim Superintendent
